

Chopper

A quality product of the Chicken Liberation Army
Made for the Nintendo Entertainment System (2004)

Story

After ages of oppression, the chickens had finally found the freedom they had longed after for so long. They founded the city of Chickensomethingtropolis, an urban paradise where they could peck at seeds and hatch their eggs in peace. Generations lived and died, and memories of darker times faded away. All was well... for a while.

Then, without warning, the Oppressors came back. Chicken history had forgotten who they were or where they were from – all that was known was that they sought to oppress all things fowl. As of now, most of the city has already been overrun, with only small pockets of resistance. You, the Liberator are part of this resistance. You possess the last thing which has a chance of fighting back against the Oppressors: the Chicken Liberation Chopper!

Characters and Items

Liberator This is you, brave Liberator! Piloting the Chicken Liberation Chopper, the Liberator seeks to Liberate the chickens from the vile oppressors. Liberate, Liberator!

Chickens Most of the chickens have either already been pacified or have taken shelter inside the buildings of Chickensomethingtropolis. Save them!

Oppressor These nameless, faceless oppressors have only two goals: oppressing chickens and destroying their would-be liberators!

Oppressor Missile These munitions of the oppressor are fired from shoulder-mounted launchers. These missiles are heat-seeking, so beware that a dodged missile may come back again!

Controls

D-Pad Controls the velocity of your chopper

A Button Fires a missile

B Button Drops a bomb (subject to inertia)

Start Button Mystery!

How to Play

Use your weapons and piloting abilities to destroy all of the oppressors, who have taken defensive positions around Chickensomethingtropolis. If your chopper is hit by a missile, it is destroyed and you will have to restart.